

COUNTRESS CUT OFF BY MRS. GRISWOLD

Daughter Gets Only $500 in Estate Estimated at $150,000.

REST LEFT TO FRIENDS
Mrs. Drischman, Wife of Butcher in Atlantic City, Is Executor.
HAS RESIDUE OF ESTATE
Car and Furniture to Chauffeur; $600 Cash to House-keeper.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
ATLANTIC CITY, May 5.—The will of the late Mrs. Alice Gerry Griswold, well known in Baltimore and European society, which was filed for probate here to-day, cuts off her daughter, the Countess St. Claire De Contubia of Milan, Italy, with $500 and leaves the residue of the $150,000 estate to Mrs. Griswold's friend, Mrs. Mary M. Drischman, wife of an Atlantic City butcher and a dealer in real estate. Besides the $500 will be left to the Countess De Contubia Mrs. Griswold leaves $500 to each of her daughter's children.
The will was filed by Carlton Godfrey, and is dated November 4, 1920. It leaves Mrs. Griswold's automobile and the furniture of her residence in Northfield, N. J., excepting pictures, silver and linen, to Carl S. Mueller, her chauffeur, and $600 in cash to her house-keeper, Anna Schissler. Mrs. Drischman, the residue of the estate, with the provision that at her death her husband should become the executor.
Mrs. Griswold was the wife of Francis B. Griswold of New York and Baltimore, who was her third husband. Her first was Melville Patterson, the father of the Countess De Contubia, formerly Miss Anna S. Patterson. This marriage made her more prominent in society than she had been before, owing to the fact that many years before Melville Patterson had married Jerome Bonaparte, a brother of Napoleon Bonaparte. Mrs. Griswold's second husband was David Stewart.
For several years Mrs. Griswold had lived quietly in her cottage at Northfield, taking little part in the activities of society. Her friendship for Mrs. Drischman began when the latter handled some real matter for her and she was greatly impressed by the business ability of the Atlantic City woman. Mrs. Drischman is said here to have made more than half a million dollars in real estate in the last few years. She attracted some attention recently when she offered her summer home to President Harding.

POLICE SUMMONED TO ANSWER CHARGES

Accused After Clash With Friends of Alleged Reds.

After a struggle in the lobby of Tombs court yesterday between policemen and sympathizers of three men who had been accused of criminal anarchy, Detective Sergeant James J. Gegan, head of the police bomb squad, and Detectives Cornelius Browne and Jerome Murphy were summoned to appear before Magistrate Rosenblatt to-day, Gegan to answer a charge of criminal assault, the other two to disorderly conduct complaints.
The detectives got summoned from the Magistrate after Oswald K. Fraenkel, an attorney for one of the defendants, declared he had been assaulted by them.
The clash between the detectives and friends and relatives of the defendants occurred after the men had been discharged because of insufficient evidence. The defendants were Abram Sackis of 170 Broadway street, Israel Anter of 205 Brook avenue, The Bronx, and Edward Lindgren of 215 East Twenty-seventh street, Brooklyn. Detective Sergeant Gegan and his men rearrested the men, as they were informed the Grand Jury would indict them. In the process of making the arrests the struggle ensued.
Yesterday afternoon the alleged radicals were indicted by the regular May Grand Jury for criminal anarchy, and Judge Talley issued bench warrants for their arrest.

WOMAN CALLED AS JUROR CALLS POLICE

Told to Do Her Duty; Says She'll Never Vote Again.

Called on a panel of thirteen women from which a jury was to be chosen for the trial of an evicted action, Mrs. Sadie Wisley "changed her mind" soon after arriving in East Orange (N. J.) District Court yesterday, and insisted that she knew nothing about the case, although she had been summoned, and demanded to be allowed to go home. Abram S. Obermiller, sergeant-at-arms, said she had been called and would have to serve. She rushed to a telephone booth and called the Chief of Police. He told her to "be a good sport" and do her duty.
"I'll never vote again," exclaimed Mrs. Wisley. "The men can go and do anything they want, but I'm not going to be a jurymen."
As it happened, the case at issue, an action by the Harrison Improvement Company against Dr. Harry Ellis of 506 Central avenue, was settled out of court, Dr. Ellis agreeing to vacate by next Tuesday.

HONEST BOY FINDS $10,000 TREASURE BAG

Life Savings of David Tallmach Returned to Him.

The honesty of a small boy who found a heavy leather bag at the 135th street station of the Lexington avenue subway and carried it to the East 135th street police station, preserved the life savings of David Tallmach, a retired merchant of 2949 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday morning.
On opening the bag the police found $400 in gold coin, $250 in silver currency, a pair of diamond earrings valued at $2,500, several packages of Russian rubles, four mesh bags of gold and silver, a gold ring, a diamond bracelet, a lady's jeweled and unopened watch, and bank books showing deposits of several thousand dollars.
A short time later Tallmach called at the station. He said the value of the bag's contents was $10,000.
Tallmach's bag and its contents were returned to him by the police.

MINISTER ALONG IN THEIR 5TH AVE. BUS HONEYMOON

Trip Only One He Had, Says James Risk, Sued by Wife, Who Indicates She Understood She Was to Be Wife in Name Only.

James Risk, 67 years old, a knit goods manufacturer, with an income of $30,000 a year, was on the witness stand before Justice George V. Mullin, in the Supreme Court yesterday, in the suit for separation brought by his wife, who was formerly Mrs. Florence L. Sutlow, who is only 41. He told of the entire wedding party, including the minister, went for a ride on a Fifth avenue bus. This, he testified, was about all the honeymoon he had.
In her complaint Mrs. Risk charges desertion, dating from a trip to Cuba which he took alone last November. She introduced a letter from him in which he said "he had best stay away" from her because his "hopes had been blasted."
Mrs. Risk alleged her husband had promised her a house in Stamford, Conn., as a wedding gift, but had failed to keep the promise. He testified he would have given her the house if she had not refused to have anything to do with him. Her testimony indicated she had understood she was to be his wife in name only.
"Would you have married him otherwise?" she was asked.
"I don't think I would," she said.
Mrs. Risk made his wife an allowance of $1,000 a month up to the time he wrote the letter about his blasted hopes, and that after that he sent her $500 a month. In one of his letters he wrote that his "fingers were tingling to touch her." Mrs. Risk was asked what he meant by that. "Oh," she said, "he liked to sit on the porch and hold hands."
Justice Mullin reserved decision.

3 MEN ROB A GIRL; FIREMAN GETS ONE

Cashier Relieved of $1,075, but Cries Bring Help and Recovery of Loot.

Three men seized an envelope containing $1,075 yesterday afternoon from Miss Lillian Spica, cashier for Ellipse Sprague of 102 South Street, a Fulton street dealer, as she was on her way to the bank at Gold and Fulton streets.
Miss Spica first noticed the men when she was jostled rather roughly and while she was calling for help one of them struck her and jerked the envelope away from her. John Burke, a captain of the Jersey City Fire Department, passed and ran to her assistance. He caught the man with the envelope and held him until Patrolman Garland of the Oak street station made the arrest. The prisoner was booked as Joseph McCarty of 42 Johnson street, Brooklyn.

Morris Goldstein, a landlord of 833 East 163d street, had just finished collecting $300 rent from a dozen families last night when two men held him up in the hallway of an apartment house at 910 Prospect avenue, The Bronx, where the tenants live. He was able to escape before the men could take his money. He described the men as assailants when he reached the Simpson street station. Goldstein remained in the hallway for several minutes after the holding because the bandits, holding a revolver against his stomach, had threatened him with death if he moved.
Another attempt was made early yesterday at Port Essex Market Court. Bail to the amount of $1,500 had been collected the day before, but the burglars were frightened away before they could reach the clerk's office, where the funds were held. A screen had been cut, a window smashed and an attempt made on the heavy oak door leading to the clerk's office.
Four men who, the police say, were caught in the act of looting the loft of Isidore Schneider, a fur manufacturer, on the second floor of a building at 297 Seventh avenue, were locked up last night at Police Headquarters on charges of burglary. They said they were Morris Baum, 333 Longwood avenue, The Bronx; Abraham Cantor, 100 Fulton street, Brooklyn; Samuel Klein, 310 East Fourth street, and Moe Hantler, 554 Fulton street, Brooklyn.

INDIAN CHIEFS VISIT BIG TAMMANY CHIEF

Delegation Taken Through Wigwag and Historic Hall.

Chief Two Guns White Wolf and a delegation of Indians from the Glacier View reservation in Montana, led by Chief Two Guns, visited Tammany Hall yesterday. They were taken through the historic hall and the Indian museum, and then to the office of Chief Two Guns, who is now in charge of the reservation. The Indians were accompanied by a delegation of Tammany Hall members, including Chief Two Guns, who is now in charge of the reservation. WANTS HOME NEAR TRINITY FOR LAWYERS

County Association Committee Suggests Change.

The housing committee of the New York County Lawyers Association at the association's annual meeting last night in the Hotel Astor suggested that the permanent home be in the section west of lower Broadway and within a ten block radius of Trinity Church. The downtown bar will be forced to move west of Broadway if it doesn't do so voluntarily, the report stated, inasmuch as the influx of banking institutions and law firms into the area has made it impossible to establish one center for all lawyers. The report was filed with the association and will be presented by the various committees.

CROOKS PARADE FOR VISITING POLICE HEADS

Chiefs Then See Rookies Class Graduate.

The daily crop of crooks—pickpockets, second story workers, and men and women who are arrested for minor crimes—are mustered for the morning "lineup" in Police Headquarters—were passed in review yesterday by about two hundred of the visiting police chiefs and superintendents from 137 cities who are attending the National Police Conference. The visitors were deeply interested in this "back of the six days" show of New York department is staging for their benefit. Afterward they were piloted through the headquarters building and then to the graduation exercises of 100 students of the police school of instruction. From Police Headquarters they went to City Hall, where Mayor Hylan received them and made them a little speech.
RABBI BROWNE ROBBED.
Rabbi E. B. M. Browne, public defender of the American Jewish elders, reported to the police last night that on Wednesday night he was attacked by two men in an automobile and robbed of documents relating to charges said to have been made that Gen. John J. Pershing was unfair to Jewish soldiers in France.

GIRL TEACHER WHO TOOK POISON DIES

Miss Keough of Yonkers Victim of Nervous Ailments Says Her Father.

Miss Isabelle Nathalia Keough of 35 McLean avenue, Yonkers, died yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers, from the effects of eight tablets of bichloride of mercury which she swallowed in the bathroom of her home last Friday morning. According to the Yonkers police department Miss Keough committed suicide after she had confessed to forging the name of her friend, Miss Anna J. Pegg of 496 Van Cortlandt Park avenue, Yonkers, to three checks drawn on the Yonkers Trust Company, and cashed at New York and Yonkers department stores.
John Keough, the young woman's father, told Lieut. Dennis Cooper of the Yonkers police force that his daughter had been suffering from nervous ailments for several years, and had been under care of a physician most of that time. Lieut. Cooper said that after he had traced the checks to Miss Keough he sent her to Public School 34 in Yonkers, where she taught the sixth grade, and that she admitted having forged Miss Pegg's name. He said she told the police she had no idea why she did it. For this reason, she was not permitted to support her, and that her father is fairly well to do.
During the conference at Yonkers police headquarters, where Mr. Keough paid the bank the $30 covered by the three checks and both Miss Pegg and the bank official agreed not to prosecute, Miss Keough declared she intended to commit suicide, and as she left she said she was going to throw herself under the first trolley car that passed. Her parents were notified her throughout Thursday night, and early Friday morning when she awoke she appeared to be in normal health and spirits. For this reason, she was permitted to go into the bathroom alone, but she had been there only a few moments when she came out and said that she had swallowed the mercury tablets.
Mr. Keough summoned a physician and she was taken to the hospital, where every effort was made to save her life, but without success. The girl was 25 years old and a graduate of the Yonkers Teachers' Training School.

POLICE ALLEGED FORGERY

Young Woman at a Loss to Explain Act—No Intention to Prosecute Her.

MARKS OF TAMPERING SHOWN BY BALLOTS

Custodians of Boxes Summoned to Explain.

Evidence of tampering with the ballots in three or four election districts in the Eleventh Senate district, Brooklyn, is so strong that all the election officials and two police captains in whose custody the boxes have been since election were summoned to appear at the Police Department of Elections for examination this morning.
This was learned when the Senate Committee on Elections and Privileges completed going over the 60,000 ballots in the contest of Daniel J. Carroll, Democrat, for the Senate seat now occupied by Abraham L. Katlin, Republican. The latter was declared elected on the basis of the returns in November by a plurality of approximately 400.
Some 600 ballots have been held out to be passed by the committee. In many cases there was evidence that marks for the Socialist candidate for the Senate had been erased and marks placed against the name of Mr. Carroll. There was one blot of ballots marked for the prohibition candidates for each office except that of Senator. The mark there was against the name of Carroll. It seemed clear that the marks for the prohibition candidate had been erased and those for the Democratic candidate substituted.

'UNWRITTEN LAW' AIDS SLAYER OF GANGSTER

Youth Who Killed 'Dago Frank' Freed.

The Grand Jury in Brooklyn yesterday considered the "unwritten law" in dismissing a charge of murder against James Lemperele, 19 years old, of 56 Washington avenue, Brooklyn, who on April 19 shot and killed "Dago Frank" Tuscano, gangster and white slave, in the hallway of 149 Washington street, Brooklyn.
Among those who appeared before the Grand Jury were Mrs. Marie Lemperele, the boy's mother; Mrs. Jeannette Duke, his sister, and Madeline Currie of 1467 Myrtle avenue, Coney Island. The girls told of Dago Frank's insistence that they associate themselves with him. Mrs. Lemperele told of having been threatened with death by the gunman. The defense contended young Lemperele tried to protect his family.
After the jury decided not to indict, Lemperele was released from the Raymond street jail.

DRY AGENT WHO SLEW EASTMAN GAINS POINT

Bohan's Counsel Can See Minutes of Grand Jury.

Judge John F. McIntyre in General Sessions yesterday granted permission to counsel for Jeremiah W. Bohan, charged with the murder of Monk Eastman, East Side gunman, to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury that indicted Bohan. The motion was made by Alexander I. Rorke, former Assistant District Attorney, who is expected to move for Bohan's acquittal on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to support the indictment.
Eastman was killed on the early morning of December 26, Bohan, a former prohibition enforcement agent, surrendered to the police on January 3. He said he killed Eastman in self-defense while with Enid Murray, a newsdealer, whose death he was charged with.

YOUTH OF 17 FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

One of Three Who Shot Shoemaker Is Convicted.

Angelo Punbarelli, 17, of 41 Carroll street, Brooklyn, was found guilty at 10 o'clock last night of murder in the first degree by a jury before Justice Van Stryen in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. The jury was out three and one-half hours.
Punbarelli was charged with being one of three who shot and killed Louis Eastman, a shoemaker, in his store at 312 Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn, on the night of March 12. More than 100 Italians were in the court room when the verdict came in. Punbarelli's mother and sister became hysterical and had to be carried out.

Clever people to whom everything comes easy are like a young friend of years ago, whose natural ability and college education, because of his readiness and ease in doing everything, promised great things, but who became slipshod.
He spent his time "come day, go day," as some young fellows say, thus forming a wasteful habit of both time and money, and when his accomplishments were counted up there was nothing left to carry over and nothing to show for the fine education and the money and properties left to him by his painstaking father, whose lifetime savings were frittered away.

THIS is the Day When the Golfer Should Make Ready for the Week-end

And this is the shop where he can make ready to his heart's content.

Golf Balls
Of course, one generally buys balls from the pro. But we always keep a supply on hand for the man who finds it convenient to pick up a dozen or so while in the store.
The Four-piece Golf Suit $60 or $65
This is the suit you may wear on your way from home to the golf club—coat, waistcoat, and long trousers.
When you get into the locker-room, exchange your long trousers for knickers, and wear waistcoat, and coat, or either, or neither, as you please.
It's a great suit. You'll find them everywhere this summer. Tweeds and chevots, of course, in the good old grays and browns, herringbone and bird's-eye effects.
The three-button coat has inverted pleats in back, allowing perfect freedom of swing.

Good Clubs
Simpson is quite busy making clubs. If you run up against a player with some of them you'll be sorry you didn't come and see our club-maker first.
We have clubs ready to use, of course. Swing 'em, and pick your weight. All good.
